CARL MANN HELD IN $1000

Lynn Man Charged With Snip-
ping Hair Braids Pleads Not Guilty.

Lynn, Nov. 20.—Charged with snipping off the hair braids of Dorothy Vernon, a 10-year-old girl of 21 Ernest street, Cliffdale, Carl J. Mann, whose doings have brought him into trouble with the police of Lynn and Boston on several occasions within a year, was arraigned before Judge Lammus in the District Court yesterday.

The girl testified that while she was standing in the doorway of a Union-street store, Saturday, she felt a pull at her hair braids and when she reached home later, she learned that her hair had been cut. She asserted that Mann stood behind her in the doorway and she was positive in her identification. He denied that he had cut off the girl's hair and insisted that he was not near the Union-street store at the time alleged.

In order to give persons interested in Mann an opportunity to present additional testimony, Judge Lammus continued the case until today and held Mann in bonds of $1000.

ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR THE QUARTET

Jury Took Only Twenty Minutes to Settle Fate of Gunmen

New York, Nov. 19.—"Gyp" the Blood, "Lefty Louie," "Dago Frank" and "Whitey Lewis" killed Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, at the instigation of Charles Becker and like him must pay the penalty of death in the electric chair. The jury, which has been hearing the evidence against the four men so decided today when it returned against them a verdict of murder in the first degree after but twenty minutes of deliberation.

Like Becker, the gunmen heard the verdict pronounced against them without show of emotion. They stood at the bar looking straight ahead as the foreman of the jury rose to make known the result of its deliberations, and they continued to stare stolidly in front of them until the formalities of the proceeding were concluded.

Remanded to their cells in the Tombs
until tomorrow morning when Justice Goff will fix the day for imposing sentence, they turned and filed out of the court room with as firm a step as when they had entered. "Whitey" Lewis alone walked with his head bowed.

As they entered the door leading over the Bridge of Sighs, "Gyp" said something to "Lefty" in a sullen undertone, which none could hear. Outside,
"Lefty's" doll-faced wife, "Lefty's Lil-lan," as she is called, wept on the shoulder of her husband's father, who vainly tried to comfort her—for the verdict was quickly flashed from the court room to the waiting crowds without. "Gyp's" wife, known as "Gyp's Lillian," received the news in the house of detention. The two other gunmen are unmarried.

CLOTHING THIEVES.

One Works Smooth Game at Rooms of Warwick Club.

John Babbitt was arrested on Tuesday for the larceny of an overcoat from the Warwick club, the property of Joseph W. Berry. Babbitt worked a smooth game in getting away with the garment, which up to noon had not been recovered. The thief came to the club rooms and informed the janitor that he had a child down on the next floor who was to have some teeth extracted and asked if he could remain there while the dentist was on the job.
He was allowed to come in and take a chair while the janitor and other members of the club were engaged in a game of pool.

Babbitt went to the coat room where he made a selection and quietly got out. In a short time the police arrested the thief, who had just been released from jail where he had been serving a term for stealing tobacco. He says he does not remember where he disposed of the coat.

Today the police got another clothing thief who gave his name as John Lambert. He was charged with stealing a sweater from John Hodgdon, a fireman on the Atlantic Shore Line ferry boat.
Both were heard in police court this afternoon.

MASKED MANIAC TERRIFIES CITY

Was Armed With Infernal Machine Containing Enough Dynamite to Destroy Entire City

Los Angeles, Nov. 19.—Armed with an infernal machine containing enough dynamite to destroy an entire city, block a bottle of nitro glycerine and a 45 calibre revolver, a masked maniac today took possession of the central police station and held it for more than an hour while hundreds of occupants of the building and those for blocks around, panic stricken all sought safety in distance.

When detective James Hoesyeh knocked the man unconscious with a leather billy, after slipping up behind him the fuse of the infernal machine was automatically lighted, but detective Samuel L. Brown grabbed the box with its fuse sharply sputtering, and hurried it into the street.

Sticks of high power dynamite scattered over the pavement, while hundreds of spectators stood apparently paralyzed by fright. Through a freak of chance there was no explosion, and Brown continued kicking the sticks of dynamite and jump on the fuse until he had broken the connection and extinguished the flame.

Manacled to a cot in the receiving hospital tonight, the would be dynam-iter, who gave his name as Albert Henry Davis, is suffering with severe scalp wounds, but the police surgeons say his injuries are not serious.

Davis entered the outer office of chief of police Sebastian this forenoon.
His face and head were completely covered with a grotesque mask and he carried in his arms a large box covered with cloth.

The box was strapped about his shoulders and resembled a small hand organ.

First startled, and then amused by the strange spectacle, police sergeant R. F. Hill who suspected a practical joke, asked the man what he wanted.

"I've got enough dynamite here to blow us all into eternity the man said, and I want you to send for the highest official of the Southern Pacific railroad."

The masked visitor rested the box on a cabinet and Asst. Dist. Atty. R.
O. Graham who was in the office, started joking with him.

"This is no joke" said Davis. "I mean business and if you don't believe try to take this away from me.
My hand is fastened in this box and I'll pull it away, hang—we will lie."

A hole had been cut in the box and the occupants of the room saw for the first time that the man's left hand was hidden in the box.

They began to realize that it was no joke. Davis then walked into the office of police secretary C. E. Snive-ley, which opens into the private office of Chief Sebastian, and repeated his request that the head official of the Southern Pacific be summoned.
Sniveley asked him if he had any preference in the man he desired to blow up and he replied that he only wanted the head man.

Sniveley then took down the telephone receiver, and pretended to hold

AGREE HE IS INSANE

The Assailant of Col. Roosevelt Will Undoubtedly Be Sent to Asylum

Milwaukee, Nov. 19.—That John Schrank, who shot Col. Theodore Roosevelt on the night of October 14, last, is insane, will be the substance of a unanimous report of the five alienists appointed by Judge A. C. Bakus to examine into the prisoner's mental condition according to the statement of a court official this afternoon.

Judge Backus stated late today that the report probably would not be presented to the court until Thursday and that he had no idea what the findings would be.

The commission held what was expected to be its last session with Schrank today.

Presuming that Schrank will be found insane, it will be impossible to try him on the charge of attempting to kill Col. Roosevelt. The only alternative is confinement in the hospital for the criminal insane at Oakshosh.

ELK AND BUFFALO IN YELLOWSTONE PARK.

The elk that winter in the Yellowstone National park now amount to over 30,000 according to the report of the acting superintendent of the park just made public by the department of the interior. "The problem of handling this large herd of elk to the best advantage," says Lieut. Col. Breit, "has become an important one, and one in which many are interested. The department of agriculture has, in the interests of the elk, limited the grazing districts for sheep in the National forests adjoining the park; the States of Montana and Wyoming have set aside game preserves adjoining the park for the protection of the elk and other game; and the latter State as well as the Federal government has spent money to feed the elk that winter in Jackson Hole."

"The buffalo in the park," says the acting superintendent, "are in two herds—a wild and a tame one. A special effort was made during the month of July to determine as nearly as possible the exact number of buffalo in the wild herd in the park. Forty-nine animals, including 10 this year's calves, were counted. This is the largest number reported for more than 10 years, and the number of calves indicates that the herd is thriving beyond expectation.

"At the present time there are 148 animals in the tame herd, 68 males, 61 females, and 24 this year's calves, sex undetermined."

"A disease attacked the herd in December, just after the buffalo were taken up from the range where they had been day-herding during the summer, and 22 died before it could be stopped. The department of agriculture sent a veterinarian to the park to do what he could, and after examination of specimens from the dead animals sent to that department in Washington the disease was pronounced to be hemorrhagic septicemia, although its symptoms were at first thought to be those of black-leg. The carcasses were burned and all precautions taken to prevent further spread of the disease. In June a veterinarian was sent out by the department of agriculture, who vaccinated all of the adults of the herd with serum prepared and furnished by his department, as a protective measure."

"In addition to the 22 animals that died of the disease, 2 bulls and 1 cow have died or had to be killed for various causes during the year. These, however, were of but little loss to the herd, as they were old or decrepit animals and unfit to remain with the herd."

"By constant herding during the summer the herd has become used to being driven, and as a rule is handled with but little trouble on the range. The usual show herd of 15 bulls was brought into the field near Mammoth Hot Springs at the beginning of the tourist season, so they could be seen by travelers, and was returned to the main herd on September 18."

POLICE COURT.

Judge Simes held a short session of police court on Tuesday, and two young men, who had got into a wrangle about something were made to pay the cost each. They had not done any damage and were let off easy.

Mary Wesol, who has been held at Manchester, charged with shooting a boy at Londonderry, was arraigned before Judge Simes. County Solicitor Gupit appeared for the state and Attorney Anderson of Boston for the woman. On the agreement of County Solicitor Gupit to agree to a petition to the Superior Court for a bail, examination was waived and the woman committed without bail, and a Superior Court Judge will be petitioned for a bail, which will be fixed at $500.

The woman does not talk English, and the case arose out of her being annoyed on Halloween night by a number of boys, and she opened the

SAW GIBSON IN WATER

Women Viewed Greenwood Lake Tragedy Through Opera Glasses

Goshen, N. Y., Nov. 19.—A woman who saw a part of the tragedy on Greenwood lake last July, when Mrs. Rosa Menchik Szabo lost her life, testified for the state today at the trial of Barton W. Gibson, the New York lawyer accused of murdering Mrs. Szabo, his client. This witness, Mrs. Emma Benninger of Paterson, N. J., who appeared in the case today for the first time, trained her opera glasses on Gibson as he was struggling in the water half a mile or less off shore and saw the tragedy in part through the lenses.

"I heard Mr. Gibson shout," Mrs. Benninger said, "and from my porch where I was sitting, I could make out that he was overboard. The boat was drifting slowly right side up. I could see him swimming toward it. I ran to the hall and got my opera glasses and looked at him through them."

"When I got them adjusted, a few seconds later, he had reached the boat and was clinging to it. The boat had been turned over during the time it took me to get the glasses."

"Was Gibson still wearing the shirt of his bathing suit?" asked District Attorney Rogers.

"He was; I could see it quite plainly. I saw the motor boat Torpedo coming towards him and a moment later he evidently saw it too, for he ceased shouting."

Sometime between the moment Mrs. Benninger lowered her glasses and the arrival of the Torpedo at the scene of the tragedy, 500 feet distant, according to her testimony, Gibson lost the shirt of his bathing suit.

William Kern, boatman of the Torpedo, and the next witness, testified that when he rescued Gibson from the water, the latter wore no shirt.

The defense has contended that the shirt was torn from his back by Mrs. Szabo as she struggled with him under water and that when he came to the top the garment had been torn away by the drowning woman.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS ARE SUMMONED BEFORE GRAND JURY

Boston, Nov. 19. — Summons were served by the Federal authorities this afternoon on a number of officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad for appearance before the United States Grand Jury in New York on Thursday next, to give testimony bearing on the action pending against the New Haven road.

The summons were sworn out by United States Dist. Atty. John A. Wise of New York. Included in them was subpoenas for the appearance of Timothy J. Byrnes, vice president of the New Haven, and Alexander H. Cochrane, one of the directors of the road. In the batch of summonses were two for service on Nathaniel Thayer and Amory A. Lawrence, former directors of the road, and who have died within the past year.

It is hinted in Federal circles that the inquiry before the Grand Jury in New York has a bearing on matters connected with the recent manipulation by the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Grand Trunk roads.

CHARLES EDWARD GREEN.

There are still living in Portsmouth some of the schoolmates and early associates of Charles E. Green, whose death occurred at Brookline, Mass., Monday, Nov. 11, and some who in recent years have made a pleasant acquaintance with him in his frequent visits to his mother, Mrs. Susan Locke Green and his aunts Mrs. Hanscom and Mrs. Marden, at their home on Istington street. He was born and passed his boyhood in Portsmouth, and at the age of fifteen he became for three years a messenger in the Navy pay office. He then entered the insurance office of John Sise & Co., but four years later he was for three years a clerk in a drug store at Haverhill, Mass. He then entered the employ of Davis & Crafts, shoe manufacturers, as a bookkeeper, but became a member of the firm in 1886. Soon after the business was removed to Northwood, N. H. Mr. Davis retired and the firm became known as Crafts & Green. They removed to Manchester in 1891. In 1900 the partnership was dissolved, and Mr. Green took personal charge of the business of the firm as C. E. Green & Co., which controls several hundred hands and has become, under Mr. Green's management, one of the steadiest working shoe companies in the state.

Mr. Green married, Nov. 24, 1887, Miss Sarah V. Knowlton of Northwood, who survives him. They removed their residence to Brookline, Mass., about eighteen months ago.

The funeral services were held on Friday last at the home of his mother and were conducted by Rev. Irving Tomlinson of Boston, one of the leading men of the Christian Science Church, in accordance with the ritual of that denomination. There were present Messrs. Davis and Crafts, his associates in business, and a large representation of the Manchester friends of Mr. Green, together with a considerable number of the Portsmouth friends of the family. The burial was in the Harmony Grove Cemetery.

SAILOR AND OTHER COLLARS

The sailor net is visible in a great many of the devices by which we lighten the severity of the autumn tollmade. A sailor collar carried out in spot embroidered net, inserted near the edge with crocheted and edged with fine narrow, lace-trimmed, looks very charming on a well cut coat and skirt. To do the high falcon collars their double stand up portion carried out in fine embroidery, which is softened by fine ruffles of cowboy lace beneath. A very high collar with a slight rollback reminiscent of Portia and Medici in one, is becoming, and so are the turn down collars with square rabats of lace and net beneath them.

THERE'S A REASON.

Jasper—Young Scadsby has enough. Why doesn't he keep out of business and give others a chance?
Jumpuppo—But it is by going into business that rich young men like him give smart young men a chance to make money.

BOWLING

Hull, 4; Public Works, 0.
In the Navy Yard league series Tuesday evening Hull Division defeated Public Works, taking all four points. Hull hit the pins in good form, while Public Works failed to show their usual "come back", and dropped to a tail-end tie with Machinery. Fernald was high man with 268.

Notes of the Match.

Hull Division rolled a good total, within two pins of the league record. Public Works rolled in hard luck, that is they didn't get them, hitting them "where they ain't".

Now for the big match between the headliners, Thursday night, Accounting vs. General Store. Come early and avoid the rush.

Fernald rolled in good form for 268. Remick was also hitting them.

Accounting is the favorites at odds of 10-8, for the big match, but the Store have many followers.

CHILD'S PARTY FROCK

The question of children's party frocks is one of the tragic past. Too many of these little garments are designed to make the wearer look nice and the mother feel proud, without a thought of the existence of such games as blind man's bluff and hunt the slipper. It is all very well to spend twenty or thirty dollars on a dress of cerise lace over pale blue chiffon over pink satin, but when that dress has caught on a nail and ripped itself in a wholly unendurable fashion, the evening's happiness has been even more badly injured for the wearer of the frock.

A very pretty little party frock not open to this objection is of thick cream colored silk of the old fashioned kind. It is trimmed around the hem with three little glittering frills of satin with a very high sheen on it. These frills are curved round in scroll fashion at either side of the front breadth.

The rather high waisted bodice is also adorned with little killed frills. It is cut away for an inch or two from the base of the neck and a frill of white lace turns softly back. This dress is very pretty and very dainty, but it has the cardinal advantage of being in itself almost indestructible, the only perishable parts being those which can be easily and inexpensively renewed.

ODD SHAPED WRAPS

As for the shapes of the luxurious coat, so long as it does not fall in any unnatural line anywhere it will be sufficiently smart. Perhaps the oddest kind of a coat is one sketched in Paris last week. It consists of an almost straight length of broadtail, a little less than a yard wide, and edged with tailless ermine. This is caught around the shoulders and fastened at the base of the throat with an antique clasp; thence its shape automatically returns it across the arms to the back where it kneels.

Here again it is clutched around the figure to fasten slightly to one side of the front. In addition to its oddity it has another claim to be considered smart in that it completely fails to be protective in any degree. It leaves the lungs in front exposed, while its loose shape permits the wind to get round to them at the back also. All the vital parts of the body it leaves severely alone only returning in time to hamper every possible movement of the wearer. Although a muff accompanies it almost large enough to supply its deficiencies, its wearer is hardly likely to strap this addition around her, which would be the only sensible thing to do. This quaint piece of folly is sufficiently amusing, and some fashionable doctor is likely to be very grateful to it, before the winter is over.

who had been called out.

Ambulances removed the patients from the city emergency hospital, just around the corner from the chief's office. The hospital was crowded with patients injured in last night's fire at the St. George hotel.

Realizing the necessity of keeping the man's attention engaged until the building was cleared and some means devised for felling his plans, Secretary Sniveley, and the detectives in the rooms carried on a conversation with him.

"Why didn't you go down to the Southern Pacific and blow up the man you wanted?" he was asked. "Well," he replied thoughtfully, "I thought the police could handle it better and I wanted to do a good job. I might have killed the wrong ones otherwise."

While the conversation was in progress, several policemen and newspapermen passed through the window. A newspaper photographer even came in and took a picture of the man sitting on the chair with the infernal machine resting on his knee.

"Curiously has killed lots of people," he said, "and if this thing goes off, there's going to be a whole lot of them go up."

One of the spectators attracted to the scene was J. Randel, a mining man from Chihuahua, Max Randel came in and shook hands with Davis, asking him if there was really dynamite in then box.

"Yes, and its sixty per cent stuff too," declared Davis.

"I don't believe it, you are bluffing," laughed Randel.

Davis lifted the cloth cover of the bag, which had a glass front and drew out a stick of dynamite. Randel took it, bit off a piece, and tasted it, miner fashion. He knew what it was, but dissembled, in order to gain time.

"That's not dynamite he said contemptuously. 'Somebody cheated you.' 'Light it and see,' said Davis. Randel lighted a piece of the 'dynamite' with a match. It burned briskly and those who had hitherto clung to the joke idea made a hasty exit.

After Davis had held complete possession of the station for nearly an hour and a half a plan was devised to trap him.

While Secretary Sniveley carried on the conversation, with the maniac detective Hosick slipped from the outer room, which was at Davis's back and struck him on the head with a blackjack.

The infernal machine dropped and Detective Brown who was at Hosick's elbow, grabbed it.

Davis reached his coat pocket and Davis hit him again and he tumbled to the floor unconscious. The bottle of nitro glycerine and the revolver were in Davis's inside pocket, toward which he reached.

As Davis had said, his left hand was attached to the mechanism of the infernal machine and its withdrawal ignited the fuse, but the quick work of Detective Brown prevented the spark from reaching the explosive. There were a sixty-half sticks of dynamite and an expert said it was 60 per cent and that there was enough to blow up a city block.

At the receiving hospital, Davis said tonight he guessed the fuse was too long which was the reason there was no explosion.

He said he was born in Germany, was 34 years old, and had lived in this country fifteen years. He admitted that Davis was not his right name and finally declined to talk about the past.

Davis said he stole the dynamite from the powder house of a mine quarry near San Bernardino several months ago, but he did not admit directions as to the place.

Advantage of Agricultural Co-operation.

New England farmers who have found much difficulty in getting their goods to consumers through irresponsible commission dealers and have suffered much loss by dealing with dishonest middlemen, should form co-operative associations for mutual benefit and profit.

Nova Scotia fruit growers stood the objections to the old shipping and marketing methods as long as they could and then went to work to solve the problem. Up to about three years ago all shipments to Europe were made through agents, commission merchants, and speculators on this side, who in turn consigned to dealers in London and Liverpool. It was found that the expenses far exceeded the profits. Again, there was no system exercised in sorting and packing; consequently much inferior fruit found its way to the European markets, resulting in further loss and discredit.

To overcome these difficulties co-operative associations were organized at the towns of Berwick, Wolfville and Kings-ton, but without success. Last year there was a combination of growers under a central association without corporate powers that did fairly well, handling some 400,000 barrels, but the form of this association did not afford the relief hoped for.

To remedy the defect a special act was passed by the Dominion parliament, permitting the organization of what is now known as the United Fruit Companies (Ltd.), with a capitalization of $5000, since increased to $11,000, the par value of the shares being $50 each. Under the rule each member must have one share or more than five.

The fruit of each member is gathered by himself, and after sorting is taken to the warehouses of the association, of which there are five. Here the fruit is re-sorted and properly packed under the direct supervision of a general manager, and the discarded fruit is taken away by the grower and consigned to the drier or vinegar factories. For the services of packing the grower is charged 5 cents per barrel. In this way all fruit exported is of the highest standard and commands the highest prices. In packing, color as well as size and quality is strictly observed, as the European market demands fruit of high color only. All the fruit of the members is shipped by the association.

The organization aims not only to handle the fruit of members, but also to assist them in the purchase of their principal supplies, such as barrels, boxes, farming implements, twine, seed, nursery stock, fertilizers, and in fact all the necessary appliances for fruit growing. Last year growers were compelled to pay very high prices for barrels, as much as 40 cents per barrel in some instances. This year the members paid 23 to 28 cents for barrels and about 16 cents for boxes holding one bushel. Very few boxes are used, however. Later on the association expects to make its own barrels and boxes and at a less price than is now paid.

The particular aims of the association, however, are to do away with the speculator and commission merchants, to economize in packing expenses, and to insure the shipment of fruit of the highest standard, and the receipt of commensurate prices.—Dover News.

What Is Harvard's Game?

About the silliest lot of newspaper gossip that has been sent out of Boston for many moons is the attempt to make it appear that the Dartmouth eleven in the game with Harvard on Saturday played a rough game and attempted to injure Harvard players.

If Harvard made this claim, it was childish. The fact was that Dartmouth was more than a match for Harvard at any stage of the game, and that after the game some of the "milk and water" Harvard men tried to make it appear that Dartmouth used rough tactics. Only one Boston paper appeared in the roll of charging Dartmouth with brutality. Dartmouth is playing better football than Harvard, and New Hampshire boys have been looking for some such howl as this for some time. It is Harvard's old game. She howls at Yale when she is beaten and charges roughness.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph states that the quietness of the recent elections in Cuba was generally regarded as proof of progress in the island republic. Since then, however, there has been an event showing a much greater advance than was thought to be possible. This later proof of progress was given when a mob of Havana's baseball "fans" secured ropes and went to a hotel for the purpose of lynching Umpire O'Brien of the American league, who had been officiating at games in the Cuban capital.

The Springfield Republican comments as follows: Governor Wilson not only needs a month's rest, but he is wise to go off somewhere in the solitudes and let the newspapers discuss the new cabinet and the extra session to the point of saturation. As he has already remarked, the cabinet will not be appointed until he appoints it; and it is safe to add that the extra session will not be called until he calls it. In the meantime, Mr. Taft will be President until March 3.

Art and the Union Label.

The modern radical tendency has manifested itself in a somewhat unexpected manner in the case of the latest controversy in the Chicago Federation of Labor, precipitated by the demand of a delegate from the Instrument Makers' Union that union men be required to confine themselves in their professional work to instruments bearing the union label. The horrible fact has been discovered that a number of the violinists of Chicago have for some time been extracting melodies from violins made by men who never belonged to a labor organization. Search as they might, the owners of these instruments could find no mark upon them indicating membership in a union. In fact, the musicians themselves have acknowledged that Andreas Amati and Antonio Stradivari and Alessandro Gagliano and Carlo Bergonzi and Carlo Testore and Giovanni Granelino were

"rats," insofar as they paid no dues to a union of instrument makers. But these musicians, far from being ashamed of using non-union instruments, have been proud of the possession of their violins, have regarded themselves as favored by fortune, have thought they were doing better work than their less lucky associates, and have rated themselves as artists. But some radical union label promoters take no account of art. To them the names of Stradivari and the other violin makers of Cremona and Brescia have no significance except that they are not now on the rolls of any instrument makers' organization, and so a protest has been voiced and after an angry debate in the meeting of the federation a committee has been appointed representing the central organization, the different unions of different instrument makers and the Chicago Federation of Musicians to try to effect a settlement. It will be interesting to note upon what terms such a settlement can be reached. Will the great Italian violin makers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries be now enrolled as members of honor of the union and a certificate of such membership be pasted or stamped upon their priceless products? Or will the instrument makers' union reject scornfully all thought of art and artists and insist that there is no such thing as quality and that, as one of the delegates said at the meeting, "music from a tin pan would sound sweet to a true union man if the union label were on the tin pan?"—Washington Star.

HELP PORTSMOUTH GROW.

If you like the old town best,
Tell 'em so!
If you'd have her lead the rest,
Help her grow!
When there's anything to do
Let the fellows count on you,
You'll feel bully when it's through,
Don't you know.

If you want to make a hit,
Get a name!
If the other fellow's it,
Who's to blame?
Spend your money in the town,
Where you pull the shekels down,
Give the mail concern a frown—
That's the game!

If you're used to giving knocks,
Change your style!
Throw bouquets instead of rocks,
For a while.
Let the other fellow roast,
Shun him as you would a ghost,
Meet his hammer with a boast
And a smile.

When a stranger from afar
Comes along,
Tell him who and what we are—
Make it strong.
Needn't flatter, never bluff;
Tell the truth, but that's enough,
Join the boosters—they're the stuff.
We belong.

The above is dedicated to all who believe in a Bigger, Better and Busier Portsmouth.

Cleveland spoke once of having Congress "on his hands." Mr. Wilson, though out of the country, will have the politicians on his mind. The legislative villains will still pursue him.

But it is best so. In this way the President-to-be will be kept reminded of what is before him, and that he is but mortal. Beginning March 4, he will have to think, dream, eat and drink national politics, go to national politicians for points in the game, and grow wise. So that whatever reflections and anxieties he may experience meanwhile will be so much in the nature of preparation for his task.

It would probably be better if Mr. Wilson had all of the time before inauguration day for study of national matters and conferences with the national leaders of his party. His responsibility in the White House will be enormous, and not to be lightened. He must not only shoulder the load, but go forward with it unassisted except in the way of suggestions about the bad places in the path. Very full preparation, therefore, would stand him ably in hand.

But Mr. Wilson is still Governor of New Jersey, and will continue in that office until time to pack up for Washington. And the state legislature meets in January, democratic in both branches, and charged with reforms which must be written into laws at once. The governor, of course, must lend help in the way of recommendation out much of the work. Hence local matters will take precedence of national matters, and occupy a great deal of the governor's attention before he takes up the larger duties in this own to which he has been called.

Still his experience at Trenton during the coming winter should assist him somewhat in what will follow here. He has complained of not being able to accomplish much for his state because of the unresponsiveness of a republican legislature. But that complaint will no longer lie. Everything a democratic in New Jersey now, and the governor wants good things, and proposes them, he should be able to get them.

And if he is successful over local things, Mr. Wilson will be heartened or the struggle over national things. Janglevering with a state legislature may yield him pointers for maneuvering with Congress, though he should have a care not to measure big things so closely by little things. Trenton is not Washington, as one of his predecessors in the presidency once discovered that Albany was not.—Washington Star.

PYTHIANS OF DISTRICT 10 IN CONVENTION HERE

Degree Work Very Good--Address of Welcome by Col. Bartlett.

The convention of the Pythian lodges in District No. 10, which includes Pioneer of Newmarket, Swanscott of Exeter, Olive Branch of Dover, Prospect of Somersworth, Sullivan of Durham, Trinity of Plaistow, Union of North Hampton and Wentworth of Newcastle, was held with Damon lodge of this city on Tuesday evening, all of the lodges having a good sized representation.

The members of Constitution Lodge, No. 88, of Kittery were also present by invitation of the local lodge.

The members of Damon Lodge, assembled at Pythian hall at 7.30 o'clock and headed by the Eureka Drum and Pipe band and Lucullus Company, U. R. K. T., Captain John S. Carl, as escort, marched to the Boston and Maine railroad station and received the visiting Sir Knights from Dover, Somersworth and Durham.

There was a short march about the city and a liberal amount of red fire was burned.

The convention was held in Freeman's hall and was presided over by District Deputy Grand Chancellor George H. Sanderson. After the assembly had been called to order the officers of Union Lodge of North Hampton conducted the opening ceremonies. Col. John H. Bartlett was introduced and delivered the following address of welcome:

"Speaking for every brother of Damon Lodge, it is with the warmest sentiment that I extend to you all, now, our heartiest welcome. But this, our formal welcome in the formal meeting is only a preface or apology for that torrent of welcomes and greetings which will follow when the fall of the gavel shall later unloose your hands and tongues and appetites, such as is known only when the Sons of Damon and Pythias get together. We welcome you, delegates and visitors from the eight different towns and cities associated with us in the tenth New Hampshire district of our fraternity. We welcome you, brothers of Somersworth, where the thrift of you and your fathers, has built a smart city, where once in the wilderness the Indian knifed his camp fires and cooked the salmon, speared under the falls of your river. We welcome you, brothers of the Cocheco, always ready to entertain and be entertained. We welcome you, brothers of Durham, where of old was stored the powder which fired the first shots for liberty at Bunker Hill. And you, brothers of New Castle, where once stood the British fort from which the forefathers of Durham stole their historic powder. We welcome you, brothers of Swanscott, our early cradle of liberty and the educator of statesmen and presidents. And you, of the Lamprey river which turns thousands of spindles making cottons and silks for our sisters. We welcome you, brothers of Plaistow, protectors of our boundary frontier against the encroachment of the Bay Colony. And, last but not least, you, affluent brothers of North Hampton, where the corn grows tallest, the apples reddest and the girls handsomest.

"Again I say, we welcome you all, including our neighbors across the Piscataqua and sojourning brothers, one and all, to this hospitable, old city, and we welcome you with all the hospitality of which this city is capable, a city so hospitable, as tradition has it, that when Martin Pring and his thirty companions, over three hundred years ago, drew ashore their barks and first ascended the now famous Strawberry Bank, the Indians there cooking their breakfast, suddenly and graciously left it for the Englishmen to eat; a city so hospitable that the Father of our country, the first President of the United States, journeyed thither by carriage and horseback from the then capital to accept and enjoy four days of our entertainment. We welcome you to a city which not only entertained the first but the last and several intervening Presidents of our country with distinguished honor and ceremony. We welcome you to a city which, with world-famed celebration welcomed the explorer Groveland from that historic exploration to the North. We welcome you to a city, which regally entertained for weeks the representatives of two great warring foreign powers in a conference which resulted in the Peace Treaty of Portsmouth.

"With a hospitality no less sincere than cordial, and by the same tokens of friendship and fraternity, and to such entertainment and festivities as we have, we now welcome you."

The response was made by Grand Outer Guard Eugene B. Hayes of Farmington.

The rank of Knight in long form was conferred on four Esquires by the rank staff of Damon Lodge, the floor work being in charge of Drill Master George A. Macdonald.

A roll call of lodges followed and favorable reports were made by the officers.

Interesting remarks were made by Grand Chancellor George W. Hazleton of Littleton, Supreme Representative Charles M. Corson, Past District Deputy Hubert K. Reynolds of Dover and other prominent Pythians.

Following the convention the brothers repaired to the annex where a bounteous banquet had been prepared by the members of Crystal Temple, Pythian Sisters.

The affair was one of the largest gatherings of Pythians held in this section for many years and the success of the affair was due to the efficient committee, George A. Macdonald, John S. Carl, Frank W. Knight, Frederick Harrington, Richard S. Weston, Edward T. Wendell.

Much regret was expressed over the fact that Chancellor Commander Fred, Helsor of Damon Lodge was unable to be present owing to being restricted to his home by illness.

The following menu was served by Crystal Temple, Pythian Sisters: Cold ham, potato salad, baked beans, celery, pickles, rolls, doughnuts, assorted cake, hartogin ice cream, bananas, grapes, coffee and cigars.

The committee in charge of the banquet was Mrs. Annie Butler, Mrs. Addie Carl, Mrs. Ethel Lynch, Mrs. May Wallace. The waitresses were Mrs. Mabel Cox, Mrs. Annie Ham, Mrs. Louise G. Macdonald, Mrs. Grace Forsythe, Mrs. Louise Hannaford, Mrs. Helen V. Hoyt, Mrs. Alice Johnson, Miss Sarah Johnson, Mrs. Cora Woods, Mrs. Gertrude Freeman, Mrs. Agnes Harrington.

Notes of the Convention. All of the lodges in the district were represented, the first time since the grand domain was divided into districts.

District Deputy Grand Chancellor McIntire of the First Maine district was a special guest of the evening and highly complimented the rank staff of Damon Lodge on their work.

The members of Crystal Temple are deserving of great praise for the efficient manner in which they served the banquet.

Two charter members of Damon Lodge, Horace A. Mudge and Francis R. Johnson, were present at last night's gathering.

The officers of Union Lodge of North Hampton conducted the opening ceremonies in a very able manner.

Four members of Trinity Lodge of Plaistow rode a distance of thirty-two miles to attend the convention.

The convention was the largest of any Pythian convention held in the state the present term.

STOMACH SOUR? GOT INDIGESTION ALSO?

"Pape's Diapiesin" Makes Upset
Stomachs Feel Fine in Five Minutes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead refusing to digest or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bloated taste in mouth and stomach headache--this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapiesin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out of order stomach and leave sufficient about the house in case someone else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on the 50 cent case, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out of order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes.

Diapiesin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation in the blood all the food you eat; besides it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite but what will please you must be that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapiesin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble, and indigestion.

RAILROAD NOTES

Three special trains were engaged on Tuesday night in transferring the large amount of coal from the docks here to the manufacturing firms at Dover.

The recent wrecks on the New Haven and Boston & Maine systems, due to it is alleged to engineers disregarding block and other forms of danger signals, has caused the railroad officials to investigate to what extent engineers follow the rules governing signals.

To insist in the investigation a trainman is sent out with instructions to use fuses and torpedoes, both forms of danger signals and make a report of what action the engineer of the train before which the signals were placed took.

A fusee burning red is a signal to stop, and not proceed until the light is yellow. Another danger signal under which an engineer is supposed to bring his train to a positive stop is the explosion of one torpedo. Both of these signals have not been lived up to the letter, as it is said that only last week an engineer running out of Concord failed to stop at the explosion of the signal torpedo, placed on the rail by the investigator. The officials intend to take vigorous steps to compel the enforcement of rules regarding the above mentioned danger signals which should be observed and obeyed even more than a black signal.

Station Agent A. E. B. Floyd, of Salmon Falls, has been appointed agent at Newburyport station of the Portland division, succeeding agent W. D. Harris. He will take charge next week. He has been at Salmon Falls for 26 years.

WANT WATER.

City to Furnish New Supply
for Contagious Hospital.

The board of health in conjunction with the councilmanic committee on city lands and buildings has begun the boring of a well at Sagamore hospital, the institution which is maintained by the city for the treatment of highly contagious diseases. In previous years water was supplied from a natural well, which this season ceased to give forth an adequate supply. Other wells were found on the hospital grounds and the board is anxious to develop them for future use. Pipe is being bored into the well and twenty-foot Akron will be used in bringing the water to the surface. The work is being done by E. C. Moulton, who was in charge of the hospital during the recent small-pox epidemic, and Edward Carroll.

WAY TO PREPARE CUCUMBERS

Many Methods of Cooking Succulent and Popular Vegetable Are Well Recommended.

Few persons realize in what a variety of ways the succulent cucumber may be used and what a valuable vegetable it is. Many persons who do not dare eat it in the raw state find it as safe as it is palatable when cooked.

Cut in dice-shaped pieces and boiled with carrots and onions. It is very good. The onions should be put on to boil first, small ones being used, then the carrots and last the cucumber. Drain off the water and season with salt, pepper and butter or a cream sauce.

Cooked cucumber is excellent for salad. Boil until tender, drain, cut in thick slices and put in the refrigerator until ready to use. Serve with tender lettuce and thinly sliced green peppers and French or mayonnaise dressing. Other vegetables may be added to this salad if one happens to have some left over in the refrigerator, cauliflower being particularly good for the purpose.

"Left-over" vegetables may be utilized for cream soups in all sorts of delicious combinations. For instance, try an onion in a little butter, add cooked lima beans, cauliflower, carrots, peppers, peas or whatever you happen to have on hand, and bring to a boil with sufficient milk thickened to the consistency of heavy cream and flavored to taste. The vegetables should be cut in small pieces or they may be mashed if a smooth soup is desired.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cooking is a matter which concerns the whole family, and under modern methods and conveniences it is made so attractive the whole family is becoming interested, if not taking part in it.

"These biscuits are delicious; this cake is excellent," says the father. "I made them," says the daughter, and both father and daughter beam with pleasure.

It is a crime, with our modern agencies, helps and facilities, to have soggy biscuit, or wooden cake, or leaden pastry.

Royal Baking Powder has made home baking a success, a pleasure and a profit, and the best cooking today the world over is done with its aid.

The interior of the hall was radiant with electric lights and bunting. The Portsmouth City Band were present and gave a short program in front of the hall while awaiting the arrival of the guests and played during supper. Congressman E. E. Reed made the trip to New Castle with Judge Page and J. W. Emery and he was given a most welcome when the automobile drew up in front of the hall. There was a grand march led by Mr. Reed and Miss Cummings and they were followed by fifty couples. Dancing was the feature until a late hour this morning. The Gupilli orchestra furnished music.

BRAIDS AND BUTTONS USED AS TRIMMINGS

An observant male the other day demanded of his feminine belongings some explanation of the fact that a well known woman in blue serge near him, was according to him, carrying seven dozen buttons. He was told that she was not carrying them but that they were trimming her dress. He said, Why? He was told that they were smart. He said Why? After some hesitation he was further informed that buttons gave a note to a dress. He said Why? He was then told not to ask so many questions.

There are of course, ways and ways of using buttons as trimmings and some of them, though one can not perhaps say why, they are really smart. But a good many of the new gowns are absolutely overdone with buttons. They look as though buttons had been sewn in a trench and were now picked out at two inch intervals all over the coat and skirt. They are large buttons, shiny ones or tinted horn or smoked pearl, or simply or colored bone. The lady in question was, as it were, breastplate in buttons, but when she turned round, the observant male in question exclaimed, "But she is the same all over her back!"

Yet he saw and approved of a coat and skirt which pretended to fasten down one side of the back breadth, the pretense being carried out by means of braid motifs.

HANDMADE LACE

Lace again comes into its own which is very good news, but it must be hand made if it aspires to attract.

For flaky pie crust use

Cottolene

Lard soaked pies have caused a world of indigestion, and pies therefore have been wonderfully abused, and in some cases taboed. When properly made with Cottolene and eaten at suitable times, pies are no more indigestible for a normal person than are many other foods which so far have escaped this criticism.

Cottolene makes light and delicate crust—rich, but not greasy—wholesome, digestible, nutritious.

There is no hog fat in Cottolene. It is a vegetable product—made from purest and choicest cotton oil. It is a product of nature, and much more wholesome than either butter or lard.

Cottolene is an economical fat. Use one-third less than either lard or butter, and obtain better results.

Odd Lots of Seasoned Bonds

The expression seasoned bond has a twofold meaning. It means, in the first place, a bond issued by a corporation of demonstrated earning capacity or a municipality of established credit. It means, in the second place, a bond that has been on the market long enough to win the recognition of investors as a sound security and consequently to acquire the quality of ready marketability.

In the ordinary course of our business we accumulate from time to time odd lots of seasoned bonds, repurchased, for the most part, from our clients who have had occasion otherwise to employ their funds.

Write us for a list of attractive odd lots, stating your general investment preference.

admiration. As we become less domesticated and less home loving we grow more and more in love with the charm of home wrought needlework, especially lace. Paris with all reputation for fickleness never tires of Irish crochet and Paris knows best moreover, how to blend it effectively with other fabrics, for crochet itself is one of the beautiful things of which you can have too much. When used en masse it is heavy and overelaborate.

KITCHENETTES

When making thickening for soups, gravies, etc., use half flour and half cornstarch.

One ounce of coarse salt dropped in the kitchen sink will prevent the drain pipe from freezing over night.

A tablespoonful of washing soda and a cup of vinegar poured down the sink will clean out the most stubborn of clogged pipes.

If you want to keep lettuce dry his way: First, wrap head in newspaper thoroughly wet with water, over this with dry newspapers, wrap up and leave on ice until wanted. This will keep it fresh overtime.

To remove stains from polished wood trays or tables caused by heated dishes, a thin paste made from salad oil and salt is very good. Spread it over the marked place and leave it for an hour or more; then rub off with a soft cloth.

Pickles served with fish give a fish liked by many.

Nothing ruins ivory handled knives so quickly as putting the handles in water. Indeed, no knife should be put entirely into water. Wash the blades and wipe off the handles. If plunged into water the water is likely to work its way into the handle where the blade is fastened and in time will rust the handle so it cracks.

The easiest way to clean parlor picture frames is to use a small paint brush.

A delicious Turkish dish can be made from left over corned beef to make sauce and rice. Chop the beef and heat together with the rice and tomato in a saucepan; season with pepper and a dash of curry.

To clean silver put a quantity of sour milk in a pan and place the articles in the milk allowing them to remain there until they become bright. Afterward wash them in warm water which contains a few drops of ammonia, and the silver will be made bright.

An old stocking leg drawn over a broom will save it and prevent the splits from breaking off.

To keep the larder sweet place a pan of charcoal in it, which aids in not only keeping it more sweet but wholesome.

To remove scorch marks from fireproof dishes soak them in strong borax water until the ugly brown marks can be rubbed off with a cloth.

To prevent fragile china and glassware from breaking and becoming chipped while being washed, place a clean Turkish towel in the bottom of the dishpan. This also will save silver from much scratching.

A good way to serve salad is in tomato shells. Take the skin of the stem and scoop out core and seeds, then put in the refrigerator until wanted.

DESIRE TO INSPECT

American Attaches Want to Go Over the Battlefield

Washington, Nov. 19.—The United States has asked the Balkan allies and Turkey to permit a party of American army officers to join their forces and go over the fields on which some of the greatest battles of modern times have been fought, within the past few weeks. If the permission is given, the members of the special cavalry board now touring Europe and the available military attaches at London and Paris will be ordered to the scene at once.

None of the military observers assigned from foreign nations to accompany the belligerent troops in the Balkan has been allowed to get to the front so far, but the war department desires to take advantage of the probability of the immediate conclusion of hostilities to send experts over the fields of late battles, while the atmosphere is still charged with the breath of war. Even after the forces have been withdrawn it is said, observers may study with profit the methods employed to handle the wounded, the disintegration of the armies, and the effect upon fortifications and trenches of the tremendous artillery fire which was the principal feature of this short and fierce war.

Breezy Items From Village Across the River.

The opening night of the Ladies Aid bazaar at the Second Methodist vestry last evening was a very successful one, the large attendance patronizing well the several booths, and the program which was a repetition of the "Tom Thumb Wedding" given by this society last spring, was even better than the first time presented. Those taking the parts were practically the same as before. The decorations were in green and white, each booth being appropriate to the article sold. The chairman of the various committees were:

Candy, Mrs. Frank Robbins; handkerchiefs, Mrs. J. E. Paul; fancy work Mrs. Edgar Baker; dolls and children's clothes, Miss Alice Clough; cake, Mrs. George Remick; aprons, Mrs. Addie Hall; ice cream, George Jones. The servers of the program were in uniform. Special mention should be made of the handkerchief booth decorations, which were of Easter lilies and evergreen entwined in which were twenty electric lights, and over which floated a pure white dove. Tonight concludes the bazaar with Prof. Bernhard of Boston as the special feature.

LOSING ITS RELICS

Landmarks of New York Are Fast Disappearing.

Workmen Remove Ancient Dragons Which Marked Historic Spot—Relics of Dutch Days Found in Earth From Excavation.

New York.—At the foot of Broadway workmen have removed one of New York's few remaining landmarks of the last century, and those who paused for a moment to watch the work realized at last that the assault of the city authorities on building line encroachments had known neither sentiment nor favor.

With chisel and drill the workmen demolished the stone foundation supporting one of the great iron dragons of the old Washington building at No. 1 Broadway, which now knows no more the two huge ornaments that reared themselves so long opposite Bowling Green, on the spot where Wouter Van Twiller, Petrus Stuyvesant and the old Dutch burghers and burgomasters used to sit and smoke their evening pipes, and where after stood the house where Benedict Arnold had his headquarters before he turned traitor.

These dragons, clawing their long iron bodies around twin lamp posts, spreading wings and tails toward the crowd hurrying across Bowling Green, are not by any means the only landmarks which have been thrown to the scrap heap by the city's ruthless order that the building line must be preserved.

Further up Broadway, at the corner of Exchange alley, men have already torn away the only relic of revolutionary days which had remained downtown, save those in France's tavern. Now, in the back room of a store at 55 Broadway there lies discarded and already forgotten the old black cannon which stood for many years in front of the building as a reminder to the preoccupied New Yorkers that there actually had been a war of independence.

Probably there would not be so much reason to feel outraged at this desecration were it not that a block below, in front of the old Stevens house, still crouch, safe from molestation, the two huge lions which once adorned the British consulate. There they are, large as life, iron eyes glaring out from before the structure in which Daniel Webster took his bride from nostrils distant toward the passers-by, seemingly breathing defiance on all who dare question their right to remain.

The cannon, which has been removed from the marble it is believed to have formed a part of the Oyster Pasty battery that was thrown up by the colonists at the outbreak of the Revolutionary war, on the shore of the Hudson opposite the door of Exchange alley.

Coincidentally with the disappearance of the ancient cannon, pedestrians in lower New York who have had the curiosity to look have found all sorts of relics of the Dutch days, in earth taken from excavations for the new aqueduct and other work. Bits of broken blue china, brown jugs, Dutch pipes and other things of that kind have been taken from earth dug from the bed of an old canal.

HE TALKED WITH NAPOLEON

Only Man Now Living Tells of His Interview With the Great Bonaparte.

London.—Eight Russians present at the centenary of the Battle of Borodino, fought in their youth, have a united age of nearly a thousand years. The average is 115. The most interesting veteran, Peter Laptev, who is 118 years old, was born June 29, 1794. He is the only survivor who came face to face with Napoleon.

He is the only man now alive who can boast of having seen the emperor when the French entered Poland. He was captured, and of this he says: "They conducted me to a house where Napoleon lodged. The emperor, sitting on a balcony drinking coffee asked me whether I knew the road to Dvinsk."

MADE COINS IN CAIRO CELL

Egyptian Officials Found Counterfeit Ing Plot Among the Convicts.

Cairo, Egypt.—The authorities have traced finally the quantity of silver counterfeit coins which have been in circulation to the Tourah prison, where they were manufactured by a number of convicts. One of the convicts was found in possession of an ingenious instrument made to coin five piaster pieces and a quantity of silver bullion was discovered at the same time. The prisoner confessed and implicated a fellow convict. An investigation is being made, for the authorities are convinced that a number of prisoners and minor officials of the prison are concerned in the plot.

This Spider a Sign Maker.
Riverside, L. I.—George S. Reese, a merchant of this village, has an educated spider that believes in advertising. The spider picked up one of Mr. Reese's business cards and suspended it in mid-air by a wonderful network of webs from the ceiling. The swinging sign is preserved as evidence of the spider's industry and eagerness.

EATING POOR MAN'S DINNER

Party of English Newspaper Men Try It and Find It Very Good.

London.—A party of newspaper men recently met at the rooms of the Society of Medical Officers of Health to eat a poor man's dinner. It was, of course, such a dinner as no poor man ever eats, but that is because he does not know how to lay his money out so as to get the best and most feeding stuffs, neither does his wife know how to cook them properly when bought. These things they could learn from the secretary of the society, a barrister and an enthusiast on dietetics.

It was interesting to learn what can be done by judicious buying at the open air markets of London, where the food is probably cheaper and of better quality than in any other capital. They started with some tasty soup made from parsi of fish usually thrown away as useless by thrifless cooks, each helping costing about a fourth of a cent to make. The foragers in Soho are well aware of these economies. Then there were admirable cent apiece herrings, hadlock and three meat courses, any one of which would have made a good meal. There was roast mutton from Australia—nine cents a pound in the open air market; flank of Australian beef—a part commonly ignored by English housewives, but good to eat all the same; steak and kidney pie, costing about six cents a portion; and jagged ham made from colonial hare, bought at fifty cents for nine pounds and tasting as good as the Norfolk variety.

The lemon pudding was so alluring that most of the newspaper men came again for more. The dessert was West Indian limes (five for a cent), pears (four cents a pound), and so on.

The meal cost much less than the tinned meat and fruit so much patronized by the poor and was far more nourishing.

BADEN POWELL'S FIANCEE 22

Both Born on February 22, and Were in United States on That Day This Year.

London.—Two engagements just announced have attracted particular attention. One, that of Lieut. Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell, has already been reported in these dispatches. The hero of Mafeking is nearly fifty-six and his fiancée, Miss Olive Scames, about twenty-two. General Baden-Powell, in talking about his romance said:

"The affair is not so new as persons imagine. As a matter of fact, Miss Scames was traveling in the West Indies when I went there in January and we were in America on Washington's birthday, February 22, which, curiously enough, is the date of my fiancée's birthday and of my own. I well remember how we were both interested in the little axes which they sell for wear in the buttonhole in the United States on that day."

The other engagement is that of Maj. Clive Wigram, the popular assistant private secretary and equerry of King George, to Miss Norah Chamberlain, the daughter of Sir Neville Chamberlain.

WIFE OF GOV. TENER PEEVED

Tells Court Her Chauffeur Was Arrested for Speeding by a "Darned Mean Officer."

Providence, R. I.—The wife of a "darned mean officer," exclaimed Mrs. John K. Tener, wife of Governor Tener of Pennsylvania, to Judge Rueckert at a special session of the sixth district court.

The "darned mean officer" referred to is Sergeant Harry F. Drowe, head of the "auto" squad, who, with Motor cycle Policeman Johnson and Patrolman Walter, halted the auto in which Mrs. Tener and another woman were driving on Hope street and arrested the chauffeur, Edward M. Patterson on a charge of violating the speed law.

Judge Rueckert fined the chauffeur $15 and costs, which was paid.

YOUNG ITALIANS CLIMB ALPS

1,000 Boys and Girls Chosen by Mountaineering Societies in Endurance Test.

Milan.—The Italian mountaineering societies are holding an endurance test with 1,000 young men and girls who were chosen for a three days' climb in the western Alps. The highest point attempted will be the Matterhorn pass.

The young mountaineers started on Friday, accompanied by guides and ten doctors. They will be roped together in sections of ten in the higher regions. There will be officials in each section to take notes.

PAIR DIE IN SUICIDE PACT

Found Locked in Embrace in Hotel Room and Letters Give Identity Clues.

Calgary, Alberta.—Clasped in each other's arms in their room at a local hotel, a man and woman, registered as Mr. and Mrs. W. Inthout, were found dead.

Both had died by revolver shots apparently of a suicide pact. Letters in the dead man's pocket indicate he has a brother at Pres. Water, Ore. The woman left a letter addressed to her mother, Mrs. Louis Columbus Paintsville, Ky.

CHICK BORN WITH FOUR LEGS

Amazed Mother Smothers the Freak in the Nest—Feet Point in Different Directions.

Corona, L. I.—A four-legged chicken was hatched here. The chicken was one of a brood hatched by an old black hen belonging to Mrs. Eugenia Lee of 16 Forty-fourth street, Corona.

Mrs. Lee was in her back yard when she saw the hen running around the yard cackling. Mrs. Lee found several chickens hatched. The majority were only fuzzy balls, but one chick stood up near the side of the nest and scratched vigorously at one of its brothers. This chick had four legs.

Mrs. Lee immediately telephoned her husband, Henry C. Lee, who is a printer. He lost no time in coming home. Nothing could induce the old hen to return to her nest, where there were some unhatched eggs. Finally the prodigy was removed to the house.

Its legs, two near the front of its body and two in the rear, were so arranged that the pairs pointed in different directions. Whenever the chick tried to walk it hopped up in the air.

The peculiar chicken was put back in the nest. Later it was found dead. Mrs. Lee says the mother hen must have smothered the freak chicken.

LET HER LEARN FRENCH

In Alsace-Lorraine, Once a French Province, a Little Girl Won Request.

Berlin.—While the kaiserin was recently at her Urville castle she invited the village girls to the castle. When they arrived the empress said to one of them:

"Tell me your wish and I promise to fulfill it."

To this the little one replied:

"I wish it would be granted us to learn French in our school."

The empress was taken aback by this request, which touched a great political question always to the front in Alsace-Lorraine, namely, the suppression of French influences. But having given her promise, her majesty said:

"Your wish shall be granted."

The little girl bowed and said:

"Thank you very much, Frau Wilhelme."

The next day the first French lesson was given in the Urville school since the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine. These lessons will be repeated three times a week hereafter.

KEYSTONE MAN OF 61 ELOPES

G. C. Johnson of Pennsylvania Makes Maiden of Fifty-Five His Bride at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Cupid's victims, a romantic youth of sixty-one and a blushing maiden of fifty-five, closed with a marriage here an elopement from Pennsylvania, according to the story the bridegroom told Clarence Williams, marriage license deputy. Why the elopement the bridegroom, G. C. Johnson, who gave his address as Germantown, Pa., failed to state. Miss Helen Johnson of Philadelphia was the name given for the bride.

"We made up our minds to run away and get married and we'd done it," said Johnson to the clerk. "Neither of us ever was married before, but we're not too old to try it."

SETS JUDICIAL RECORD

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT GETS BASEBALL BULLETINS.

World Championship Game Told by Innings as August Judges Hear Important Suit—Returns Given to Justice Day First.

The suit of Red Sox versus Giants, instituted to determine the world's championship, was the most interesting case on the calendar of the Supreme court of the United States the other day. The tribunal was present in spirit with the fans at Boston, receiving bulletins by innings, while lawyers for the government and the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, et al., pitched a prelate game at the bar to decide the secondary question whether the bath tub trust shall be dissolved, as were the tobacco and Standard Oil trusts.

Associate Justice Day, who was a far, when he was a member of the cabinet, made the arrangements whereby his brethren of the Supreme bench might follow the fortunes of the American and National league contestants.

The bulletins were telephoned to the office of the clerk of the court from the office of a press association. As fast as they were received a page glided to the rear of the bench and handed them to Justice Day.

It was the first time in the history of the court, so far as remembered, when any great national event apart from the legal business of the hour occupied the attention of the solemn judges. To a great extent the Supreme court decides all cases on the merits and the verbal arguments are more or less perfunctory. Frequently members of the court doze while a lawyer is humbling. On that afternoon, however, the court was awake every time the page appeared with a fresh slip of paper.

Justice Day would read a bulletin casually, then whisper something to Justice McKenna, who sits on his left, and Justice Hughes, who sits on his right. Justice McKenna passed the news to Chief Justice White, and so the score traveled in both directions. Justice Lurion showed the most interest, next to Justice Day.

When the bulletins excited special interest, the interest was shown in the putting together of judicial heads and by an exchange of comment in undertones, the lawyers stopping in the middle of energetic sentences, some times, until they could command undivided attention. Then the judges would suddenly become solemn listeners again.

As a matter of undoubted fact, however, the arguments which Messrs. Bodent, Wood and Mathewson were trying to put across the plate were more thrilling than the legal curves on which the nine black-robed urplars were expected to call strikes and balls—this, be it explained, without any reflection either on the crudity or delivery of Herbert Noble and Robert R. Honeyman, who occupied the box for the bath tub forces, or Edwin P. Grosvenor, who was on the slab for the federal government.

Individual Handkerchiefs.
As soon as a child is old enough he should be taught to use a handkerchief and properly expel mucus from the nose. The handkerchief should be an individual affair and the use of a common or family one cannot be too strongly condemned, says Harper's Bazar. Most colds, especially those of the influenza type, are now pronounced infectious by physicians. Diphtheria germs are also as common in the nose as in the throat. If not more so, and surely there is no surer way of distributing these germs, so common to both nose and throat than by the indiscriminate use of the handkerchief. The young child should have a handkerchief laid aside for his special use, and the use of mother's, father's, nurse's, or any one's else should be strictly prohibited.

Mint Helps Santa Claus.
Twenty-five thousand dollars in halves, quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies is to be washed and brightened by the mint bureau of the treasury department to meet the Christmas demand for new coin. The work, most of it at least, will be done at the Philadelphia mint, from which the coin will be issued to those applying for it.

Director of the Mint, Roberts explained the other day that there always is a heavy demand for new coin on the eve of the Christmas holidays, and that the banks call on the treasury to satisfy their customers. For several years it has been increasingly difficult to supply the demand for new coin within the proper coinage bounds.

Culinary Conquest of Tripoli.
The Arabs in Tripoli have learned the macaroni habit from their Italian enemies, and have acquired the art of eating it in the orthodox national manner. Macaroni and kettles have become coveted things, and the raiding of Italian stores has given a new zest to the Arab resistance. War is generally such a profitless thing that it is well to note when any benefit arises from it.—Westminster Gazette.

LETTER FROM LICENSE BOARD

Liquor Dealers Get Another Document on Adulterated Booze

To Licensees:

Section 17, Chapter 95, Session Laws 1903, provides that "It shall not be lawful to sell or expose for sale, or to have on the premises where liquor is sold, any liquor which is adulterated with any deleterious drug, substance or liquid which is poisonous or injurious to the health." There is also a provision in the license law that liquor kept by a licensed dealer shall not be different from what it purports to be.

In our opinion a practical administration of the law requires that whiskey, brandy, rum and gin should contain not less than 40 per cent. of alcohol by volume (80 degrees proof) and that alcohol should contain not less than 94.9 per cent. of ethyl alcohol (193.8 degrees proof).

We expect all licensed dealers to strictly conform to these standards and to see that any liquor kept by them is not different from what it purports to be, and is not adulterated with any deleterious drug, substance or liquid which is poisonous or injurious to the health. If you have any doubt about the standard or quality of any liquor kept by you, or about the same being misbranded or improperly labeled, it will be well for you to have it analyzed at once. An instance of misbranding or improper labeling would be when the package or bottle containing the liquor is marked as follows: "Pure Old Kentucky Whiskey," and when the liquor by analysis is found to contain less than 40 per cent. of alcohol and but little or no old whiskey. Another instance would be when the package or bottle is marked as follows: "Best Whiskey Made," and when the liquor is of an inferior quality. It may contain 40 per cent. of alcohol by volume and still not be what the label indicates. The label should not contain any statement, design or device which is false or misleading in any particular.

Your attention is hereby called to Section 21, Chapter 95, Session Laws 1903, which provides a heavy penalty for keeping on licensed premises adulterated liquor, or liquor which is other than it purports to be.
